

New Jersey Herald

People in Business, Nov. 19

Posted: Nov. 19, 2017 12:01 am

Stanley G. Puszcz, of Sparta, a founding member and managing partner of Sparta-based CP Professional Services, has become board-certified in environmental engineering by the American Academy of Environmental Engineers and Scientists.

He has over 30 years of experience of providing professional engineering and applied science services to a diversified group of clients from municipalities and state agencies to life science and manufacturing industries. He has managed or directed projects in municipal engineering, environmental remediation, land use analysis and engineering design.

Previously, Puszcz was a vice president, director and shareholder of a mid-sized architecture and engineering firm where he was responsible for the growth, diversification and sustainability of the firm's practice and he was responsible for that firm's corporate strategic plan.

Puszcz holds a bachelor of engineering degree in chemical engineering from Manhattan College, with additional engineering graduate studies from the Polytechnic Institute of Technology. He completed the Princeton course "Groundwater Pollution and Hydrology" and was recognized by the Association of Groundwater Scientists and Engineers as a certified groundwater professional. He has been licensed as a professional engineer in several states including New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania. He is a certified municipal engineer and he has been board certified as an environmental engineer.

He was the chairman of the Sparta Township Environmental Commission, vice chairman of the Sparta Township Planning Board, a member of the Sussex County Water Quality Management Policy Advisory Committee, and the Sussex County Open Space Committee.

The American Academy of Environmental Engineers and Scientists is a group of highly qualified environmental engineers and environmental scientists who have imposed self-testing and review for entry qualification. Each board-certified environmental engineer has not only met the standard prerequisites for specialty certification, but also has passed written and oral examinations and reviews by an admission panel of the Academy. The Academy's certification program is accredited by the Council of Engineering and Scientific Specialty Boards. Additional information can be found at www.cesb.org.

CP Professional Services has been the firm of choice for public and private clients for over 30 years. CP is a privately held multi-discipline consulting firm offering civil, mechanical, electrical, plumbing and fire protection engineering, architecture, water resource engineering, environmental, applied sciences, and life sciences consulting. Headquartered in Sparta, CP also has offices in Florham Park and San Diego.

ooo

Nancy Swanson, of RE/MAX Platinum Group of Sparta, has been awarded the Master Certified Negotiations Expert certification.

Negotiation skills are fundamental to a successful real estate transaction, and MCNE provides the most comprehensive negotiation program in real estate. It consists of six training courses, covering professional negotiation theory and techniques, as well as practical application to Real Estate situations.

Out of the 1.3 million Realtors nationwide, fewer than 2,000 are MCNE graduates. Swanson is one of 19 licensed Realtors in the state of New Jersey to achieve this milestone.

ooo

Marcello Lavorini has achieved Associate of the Month for October in the Vernon office, announced Berkshire Hathaway Home Services, Gross & Jansen Realtors.

"I'm proud to be a part of the fastest-growing real estate networks in this country. The power of Berkshire Hathaway Home Services helps me attract buyers from across town to across the globe. With over 300 homes for sale in Vernon, it's important that my client's homes shine above the rest and BHHS makes that happen every day. I also keep my seller clients up to speed with monthly real-time reports so they know exactly what's happening in our local market," Lavorini said.

A 27-year member of the national, state and local association of Realtors and Garden State MLS, Lavorini is a past winner of the Quality Service Award and is certified as a Short Sale Foreclosure Resource agent.

ooo

Joe McDonald, regional vice president of Weichert, Realtors, announced that the Sparta office and sales associate Raimonds "Ray" Erins were recognized for industry success in October.

The Sparta office led the entire company for listings during the month, and was also the top office in its Weichert sales region for resale listings, resales and resale revenue units. The region is made up of locations throughout Morris, Mercer, Middlesex, Somerset, Sussex and Union counties.

A top producer, Erins led the region in resale revenue units for October.

In related news, Andrew Milling, sales manager of the Sparta office, announced that Erins was also the top associate in his office for sale units and sale volume during October. Dawn Corbo led the office in listing units and listing volume for the month.

ooo

Doug Radford, president of Realty Executives Exceptional Realtors, announced that the following Realtors in its Sussex County branch offices have been recognized for their outstanding achievements in the month of October.

In the Byram Branch Office, Broker Associate Michael Tufaro was named the office top listing agent and Realtor Associate Jean Dishinger was named the office top selling agent.

In the Sparta Branch Office, the sales team of Realtor Associates Chris Bruscano, Jeannette Burke and Brian Weather-walks, "The Real Deal Team," were collectively and individually named the office top agents for generating the most listings and sales.

In the Vernon Branch Office, the sales team of Broker Associates Alison Callow and Denise Hart was named the office top selling agents.

"We are so proud of all these exceptional Realtors for all that they accomplish for their clients. We commend them on their continued achievements," Radford said.